MY BITCHY WITCHY PARIS VACATION WEB SERIES WRAPS

The web series comedy MY BITCHY WITCHY PARIS VACATION has completed filming.

Set in Paris, BITCHY WITCHY tells the tale of a menopausal mom who travels to Paris with her two daughters, a 15-year-old in the throes of puberty, and a 24-year old pregnant with her first child. Cultures and hormones collide in a sweet, sometimes painful, and definitely humorous exploration of mother-daughter relationships and the bonds of sisterhood.

The limited-episode comedy was written and produced by Alexis Niki, directed by Kartik Singh, shot by Nicolas Bilder, and scored by Rob Gokee.

Writer Alexis Niki has penned a story that on the surface is about female hormones and how they seemingly define women. But ultimately BITCHY WITCHY is about the pain and anxiety of the transitions we all go through. "There's a lot of humor when we're faced with change," Niki says. "Change happens both too slowly and too quickly for our taste. The series aims to highlight that feeling of uncertainty we all experience."

An international online premiere event is being organized for the fall. Cast and crew members will join in live from Paris, Los Angeles, New York, and Melbourne. "Everyone involved in the making of the series is excited about the premiere," Niki continues. "We can't wait to share the Bitchy Witchy experience with our fans."
